DESCRIPTION

Son Macia is situated in the South East in the municipality of Manacor. Its origin is the agroupation of spread rural houses that surrounded a church, a school and a group of houses called Ses Cases Grans or Ses Cases velles of Son Macià.

The eminently rural character has marked, from always, the economic base of the village that has preserved its traditions nowadays still enjoyed.

In the area is a considerable number of archaeological remains like the dolmen of Son Vaquer; natural and artificial caves, which were used as burials like the Picot des Fangar; and of the talayot period the important settlement of s Hospitalet Vell.
